

Ludwig Berger

works on acousmatic and soundscape compositions, radio works, installations and sound/music for film and theatre. His pieces deal with concepts of reality, time and perception. He also enjoys the sound without any meaning.

He grew up in a small village in Alsace/France. After receiving his Master's degree in musicology, art history and literature from the Eichstätt-Ingolstadt University (Germany), he started studying Electroacoustic Composition under the direction of Robin Minard at the Liszt School of Music in Weimar.
